Amateur astronomers have been quick to state that Kellermans theories are just that, theories. Amateur astronomers, who historically backed up Kellermans claims, are now turning their backs on him, suggesting there is nothing out there that shouldn't be.

Paula Jenkins a current aerodynamic operations employee at NASA also states similarly in her response to be asking whether Kellerman should be believed, she said "Jack Kellerman has made exceptional claims.

Claims of grandeur, claims of fantasy, and possibly more-so of dreamy desires. There is no known threat to Earth from the outside at this time. There is no perceived planet heading on a collision course with our planet, our home."
